

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Portable PC Assistant Aims to Change the Flow of Information from the Net

Los Angeles, CA—September 27th, 2006—Designed to bring new life to some of the most time honored Internet presences in history, ForeSight Systems LLC announce the release of Version 4 for the Pertelian X2040. Built to relinquish Internet users from the dependence of emails, bookmarks, and browsers, this external USB LCD will now feature Pertelian™ Monitor for eBay, Forum Watcher, and IRC Support. As the ultimate PC assistant, Pertelian allows for a degree of freedom never possible before.

"It's time to have the Internet cater to you," comments ForeSight Systems' President and CEO Alex Jarzebinski. "Pertelian redefines multitasking by keeping you connected to what's important while you work or play. This latest release is an example of our commitment to bringing valuable new additions to Pertelian."

With a single keystroke, Pertelian™ Monitor for eBay gives users continual access to eBay item listings. Pertelian displays current bid amounts, remaining time, and highest bidder without the user's effort. This brings a new edge by providing a centralized item listings manager, complete with options to instantly display outbid and time remaining alerts.

Forum Watcher brings all of your forum threads into one application and gives users the ability to receive alerts when there is a new post or change. This feature assures the only time users check a thread is when there is new content. It also allows users to bring up selected threads instantly via hotkey.

Pertelian's IRC Support feature will allow users to connect to one of the most widely used methods of chat, Internet Relay Chat. Favorite IRC channels are now accessible without the use of multiple windows and interruption of other applications.

Measuring only 4.5" x 2.5", Pertelian is well suited to function at home, work, or with a laptop. With Pertelian, there is no need to divert attention from a single field of vision. The included stand and Velcro attachment places both monitor and LCD in one area. This is especially vital to gamers where any distraction can mean the difference between victory and defeat.

This version will complement 13 established Pertelian features such as TeamSpeak Support, IM Chat, Media Player with Song Search Engine, Sports Scores, and RSS Feed Aggregator. In addition, the list of community developed features will continue to expand thanks to Pertelian API's, development materials, and the Community Download Center.

Pricing and Availability

Version 4 for the Pertelian X2040 will be available online in October 2006 with a suggested retail price of $48.99 in the US. For more information about Pertelian and its growing list of features, please visit www.pertelian.com.

About ForeSight Systems LLC

Founded in December 2004, this small California based company was the first to introduce this type of external LCD PC assistant. ForeSight Systems LLC is dedicated to the design, manufacturing, and marketing of its sole product, the Pertelian X2040.

Contact:
Alex Jarzebinski
President
ForeSight Systems LLC
(714) 657-2522
alex@pertelian.com
www.pertelian.com

###